TotalSpooF

"TotalSpooF is a freeware that gives you control of your spoof list. This useful utility allows you to import and export spoofs lists from XML files, and also allows you to delete your spoofs manually with the option to rename all items or to leave them with their original names and with the dead icon. Also the program provides the features to refresh your spoof list, scan and validate a spoofed website or to add a new spoof to your list. In addition TotalSpooF allows you to use the right mouse button on your spoofs and to mark the ones you favorites." User reviews July 8, 2008 July 24, 2008 July 29, 2008 Is it possible to automatically upload the fake logins, created in TotalSpooF, on to websites using a program like FastLoad? I use this app and have a few websites where I often have to log in with my fake credentials. As you can imagine, I tend to create a bunch of fake logins every time, which is really annoying. If it is possible to automatically upload the logins generated by TotalSpooF, this would be great. Btw I'm really excited about this app, because I finally get to use my logins where I usually have to type in my credentials manually. P.S. I tried to insert the logins, using "File/Connect to Server...", but when I click on it, it just says "Enter credentials" without giving any indication whether the logins have been successfully pasted or not. Are there any other features I should know about? TotalSpooF has been working fine for me but I'm looking for some more features that would make it even more useful. If it is possible to automatically upload the logins generated by TotalSpooF, this would be great. Btw I'm really excited about this app, because I finally get to use my logins where I usually have to type in my credentials manually. I just wanted to tell you that your positive feedback is really appreciated. I really enjoyed using the program. Are there any other features I should know about? The solution is a possible "extension" for TotalSpooF. TotalSpooF can create fake logins that are valid for the sites that you select. But the script that generates the fake logins also saves them to a file and

DNS is important for the World Wide Web, but many people have the incorrect impression that they do not need to understand DNS or how it works because they just surf the World Wide Web. But, to those people I would say this. You need to understand DNS to get the most out of your World Wide Web experience. Without understanding DNS you could surf the World Wide Web for a long time and not realize that things are missing. So, if you are a web surfer, you need to learn a little about DNS and how it works. For those people who are still learning what DNS is, I have listed some helpful links below: Another resource I would like to recommend to those interested in learning more about
