The United States women's team (USWNT) will undoubtedly be hoping to produce a dominant showing and claim its place as the clear top dog in women's soccer. However, as we have been seeing from the UEFA Championship since Spain has entered, how players perform within their own team can often be misleading. On the grounds that, Portugal's Cristiano Ronaldo and Robin van Persie are the joint top-goalscorers in the tournament, you would have to guess that Ronaldo would be having one of the best years of his career. However, he has had a highly disappointing tournament, scoring just one goal in Portugal's four games, as well as getting yellow cards in each of the matches. While supporters of the USWNT and other international teams are hoping for a virtual clean sheet on Saturday night in the quarter-final, Ronaldo will be hoping that his two bookings, including one for a very harsh yellow card for hauling down Marta in the corner against England, don't see the Man United forward ejected from the game. On the other hand, as it stands, Germany's Nadine Angerer is having one of the best years of her career. This is her sixth consecutive UEFA championships, with her club Bayern Munich having matched Arsenal's Invincibles record of 13-0 in the league for the past season. In a group that featured the Netherlands, the United States, France and Japan, the 5'7 goalkeeper has kept a remarkable 11 clean sheets. However, she will face a far tougher test against the current world leading team, China. Do you have more patience than your roommate? Then you're the perfect candidate for a gas-powered industrial-strength boffin. You'll need... 3D printer Some metal tubing 6" of 1/2" copper tubing (at least a half pound) 1/4" brass tee Some screws 1/2" brass cap Tools Misc. tools

Step One: Cut the Metal Basically, the process is going to be to take a bunch of metal and figure out a way to cram it into a smaller version. First, though, you need to take a bunch of

MOST IMPORTANTLY: To update your ATI Catalyst to support your new operating system, you should uninstall your old driver first: Click the Start Button, and then type devmgmt.msc in the search box, then open the Device Manager and locate your ATI Radeon card. Uninstall any drivers that you currently have. Click "Apply" and then "OK" twice. Install the new ATI Catalyst drivers. Finally, reboot your computer.
This should fix the problem and you can enjoy your new operating system.
NOTE: I have not tried all of these changes (or even any of them) and I have no idea how well they will work for your particular Radeon card. So I have a problem with my C# iPhone web service application. I have created a service and a client that allow my iPhone application to get the information from the database on the server. When I'm trying to call GetMyDataAsync(), there is always a 15sec delay after the call to the server. Does anyone know what I'm missing?

The server will not give me any information about why there is a delay. There is no "message" to the iPhone app indicating, that there is delay. In the iOS Simulator, everything runs as expected. I hope someone can help me. Thanks in advance

Thomas A: You are probably reading HTTP response from a long-polling socket. Read the response while your app is NOT running (readFromStream or even Telnet). If you have a console app that handles the reading, debug it and you will quickly find where is the problem.
