Earlier this week, a video of a Taser-wielding NYPD cop slamming a college student onto the ground while fellow officers look on went viral. Now, a second video has surfaced, showing the cop and his partner in other acts of police brutality against a different student. According to Philly.com, the officer was part of a cop "strike team" that had just made their way to the Chestnut Hill campus of Temple University, where just a week prior a 17-year-old Black man, George Sampson, had been killed by other cops. In the video, Temple university students arrest a black female for not showing identification when she attempts to walk by a white police officer. However, the young woman is not a student in a scolding manner. But, despite being released by the officer, the student refuses to leave the area. That's when the officer pulls out his Taser once more and begins tapping the young woman on the chest. The officer then proceeds to drag the young woman across the parking lot by the neck, before finally tossing her to the ground. The officer then pulls out his handcuffed woman and throw her into the back of their police car. At this point, the officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer. The video then ends, as the officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman, who is being held in a chokehold by an officer still has his Taser in his hand and begins pointing it at the young woman and begins poin reported, Sampson was fatally shot by officers from the 77th Precinct in Harlem c9d1549cdd

KBR-31-2 Choosing the best broadside chaser does not get easier than when you try to overcome a properly weighed heavy cruiser that carries a broadside of chasers. Fortunately for Captain Jared Giddings of the USS Gudgeon, the KBR-31-2 came pre-balanced before sailing through Pearl Harbor. A snapshot of the cruisers action: 1) After sighting and closing, USS Gudgeon opens fire at 1,600 yards with 16 5-inch shells against 2) 12 5.5-inch guns, few of which hit, and most having passed harmlessly overhead. 3) 2 6.1-inch guns, one hits in the 50 yard band of the ship, but no one is even wounded. 4) The KBR-31-2 opens fire with 10 25-pounders, scoring Gudgeon's left tube. 5) Gudgeon scores several hits, but none is lethal, and it scores some minor damage to the cruiser. 6) with the 5.5-inchers disengaging, the KBR-31-2 reengages on a random bearing that results in Gudgeon receiving an amidships hit. 7) Gudgeon now scores a successful broadside hit against its original target, the 5.5-inchers, but it has little effect on the cruiser; scores again on a random bearing 5) that proves fatal. 8) Gudgeon returns to fire with its 6.1-inchers and scores another broadside hit against the KBR-31-2, deadcenter on her amidships guns. Now well over 1,100 yards, Gudgeon fires its remaining six 5-inch rounds. Gudgeon scores 2 more hits against the KBR-31-2, again with little damage, and once again, the KBR-31-2 scores Gudgeon, damaging the cruiser's port and starboard sides. Gudgeon then fires a second broadside to double its damage score to three. Shifting targets: Jared Giddings orders his ship to turn on the right as his target turns to starboard. USS Hvalfjord sails side-on to its target. On her second broadside, Gudgeon scores one more hit, and the cruiser does the same in return. As Gudgeon steers onto its target, the former target tacks to the northeast.

C-Rush is a simple, high-score, shooter game. In this unique game, you can choose between a little spaceship and a gigantic tank as your vehicle of choice. In this game you have to shoot your way through a variety of platforms and obstacles, and you can move freely around the levels with your vehicle. At the end of each level, you will enter a boss fight, and this is when you will have to shoot the boss to win. The levels are divided into 4 chapters. In each one, you will have to survive a countdown timer to finish the level. When you complete each level, you will unlock new missions and levels that are already pre-installed. So start shooting! You can now find our game on Steam with a green label. Like us on Facebook, where we show all the progress and the new features we're adding! Full Version: Play us on Steam: Google Play: C-Rush on ITunes: Facebook: Twitter: Frozen Synapse is a turn-based strategy game in the style of the Japanese tactical role-playing game known as "Japanese-style RPGs" (JRPGs). Frozen Synapse is played from the perspective of the elite "Synapse" squad, responding to the actions of criminal organizations within a "city". The player, through the use of the primary or secondary unit members (or both), is able to "solve" (by performing specific actions) or "escape" (by using a specified set of actions) each situation. In particular, Frozen Synapse is a game of alternatives. The player must choose from a variety of possibilities that will directly affect the game outcome. By way of example, there are no "magic" spells in Frozen Synapse, but rather direct commands that the player can issue to their squad members to gain certain effects. While each of these commands has a time limit within which it
