distributionOK, so that was a lousy video. So I recorded a better one.
First off, I'm aware I'm no Justin Bieber. That said, I'm more than willing to admit that I'm at least mediocre. But only when it comes to musicians. I have a lot of respect for musicians. In fact, I have a lot of respect for everyone. But a lot of people like to ridicule the idea of a happy family, saying that any family with children is a sham. This is totally false. Everyone is happy when they have children, no matter what age, race, religion, or sexuality. There are many who make good parents. Then there are many who make terrible parents. But any family with a child is happy. There's no hiding it. I can understand why people say that it's a sham. They're probably just jealous. But it's not a sham. It's real. Parents are often asked if they're happy when they have children. They may not say it out loud, but it's obvious. One of my friends had children around the same time as me. He used to joke with me about being a "poo
