Remember that the uswsusp binary is stored in /usr/sbin. Then make sure that the admin has the right to install the application (in Debian and Ubuntu, the default permissions are 777) This fix a bug related to the installation of the "system administrator" role. It is allowed to use and remove files that belong to a system package, but not to modify any configuration file except /etc/conf.d/uswsusp. 0 does not upgrade. To avoid confusion, please use the shortcut "release-notes" in the footer in the forum to find out what's changed and why. Concluded that is fixed in stock firmware.
