Aurora is a distinctive cruiser, with a strong-shouldered silhouette, an imposing bridge tower and an armament of fourteen 152 mm guns. A strong teamwork player, she has a clear flavor of her Soviet roots, along with the World of Warships tradition of a more active Command and Control. A well-balanced cruiser who often makes the difference in a team game or a solo game, she has a strong need for a lot of work. Her reward for her work on the Sea lanes is her excellent artillery power with a relatively limited tonnage. Aurora is a loyal friend in the World of Warships game. In a team game, she's often a good partner, and she can bring a lot to the World of Warships' Points system. Aurora is known to have good radar and surface-detection devices. Her bridge-school gives her better in combat in firing her guns or handling a zigzag maneuver Aurora is a powerful supporter, bringing a lot to the World of Warships Points system. Her shell damage is high, but a lot of the damage she receives comes from the shell damage on the allied team. In a team game, Aurora works best with enemies that have a low pen and a good Screening. Aurora works best alone in combat and on the higher difficulty levels. In the World of Warships game, she brings a lot to the Points system. An anti-aircraft destroyer is a good partner for Aurora. Aurora is an active team player, powerful and loyal. She can be used for challenging missions, as she is a good at reloading the tank batteries or the main battery. This pack contains the Senior Man-of-War "Aurora" and a free slot. It contains the following weapons: •84 mm/50 caliber SA-N-2 "Amber" anti-ship/anti-aircraft gun •152 mm/45 caliber main guns •143 mm/45 caliber ZU-23-2 "Shilka" anti-ship/anti-land-air missile •The ship also has a smoke generator.  sigue siendo el único partido que ocupa la mayoría absoluta y que asume una postura clara frente al régimen del 78. Cuando uno de los partidos liderados por el exguerrillero y fundador de Izquierda Unida Andrés Bódalo, entre un año y otro dejaba su escaño se tomaban actos públicos muy mediáticos. Aparecían en programas fijados no tanto por Aznar como por su consejero de Seguridad, el general Alfredo Lourdes de los Reyes. Pero el final de esos años de 2001 o 2004 era una auténtica segunda mitad de lo mismo: nueva alba de una nueva época. El que daba fe de ello y lo confirmaba, de una manera autorreferente pero no menos dura, fue el propio presidente del PP nacional Pedro José Rivero. En su discurso del 2 de mayo de 2004 dijo en el Parlamento: «El partido de Rajoy es el partido de Andrés Bódalo». El líder del PP fue marcado en la búsqueda de una profunda convergencia con Izquierda Unida y Zapatero quería que se uniese al Palacio de la Moncloa. Sin embargo, el magnate regional al que Rivera hablaba no estaba con el PSOE. Y hablaba del arquetipo Rosa Trujillo.
