FSX - Tropical Sim - Santos Dumont 2014 SBRJ v1.0.rar cheats no verificationO: Spring Boot Redis cache with redisTemplate.scan() I would like to get only one set of keys. Redis data will be same for all (retrieving by user and date), but implementation depends on current user and date. I found one solution with RedisCacheConfiguration.setScanHits(1) but then need to check if there are two or more sets. But if I check if there is more than one set, I need to retrieve all keys, and scan them. Is there a solution without duplicate code between cache and data? I'm not looking to hide/hide the cache methods. I just want to scan only one set. Edit: My current method is private Set getCacheWithGivenDate(String user) { RedisTemplate redisTemplate = getRedisTemplate(redisConfig); redisTemplate.scan("user:" + user + ":date:" + myDate + ":type:project"); Set keys = redisTemplate.keys(user); return keys; } But this method returns a Set of keys, not a Set of value. A: RedisTemplate scan works for you and your problem is totally wrong. If you have more than one 'type:project' keys on the same date and user, then your problem is not related to spring-data-redis (SDRedis) at all. The error you are experiencing when you call RedisTemplate#scan with two arguments, is the exact same as calling keyScan (which is the old Redis client). So there is no need to call two methods just because you want to play with the client. But if you do, you can do it easily: Set keys = redisTemplate.keyScan("user:" + user + ":date:" + myDate + ":type:project",
