“On any given day, millions of people watch football games on television, and even more play the game in person, using their own technique. But no football simulation program has offered a fully realistic portrayal of the sport,” said Richard Johnson, FIFA Producer. “The updated physics engine in FIFA 22 will re-create the real feeling of playing football. The HyperMotion Technology used in this game is based on real-life data taken from fans, coaches, players, FIFA footballers and broadcasters during a real-life, high-intensity game. It’s the highest fidelity we’ve ever offered and it is the foundation upon which FIFA 22’s gameplay is built.” The updated physics and animation system across all aspects of the gameplay including dribbling, passing, shooting, shooting from free kicks and headers, and on-ball challenges make FIFA 22 an immersive and authentic soccer game experience. Additionally, FIFA 22 introduces Total Talk-TV, which features a new skill-based commentary engine that includes 50-plus new play-by-play and color analysts throughout the world. FIFA 22 features a new ball physics system that allows players to control the way the ball moves by setting different buoyancy, drag and spin values on each of the 64 individual components of the soccer ball. The ball’s 64-component movement system is a result of extensive data analysis and computer technology supported by advanced training and education programs for players, coaches, and analysts. The latest game mode includes over 50 new players, creating more than 30 new teams. New Play Styles introduce new formations in four-player, five-player and six-player game modes. New Skill Games offers new training options, with over 50 preset training drills that mimic real-life situations. For the first time ever, FIFA Ultimate Team offers the ability to create your own custom kits. A graphical shirt creator allows players to customise their clothing. Customise your squad for battle using all kinds of creative new social features, including Watch Party, Teammate Sync, Fan Shops, FIFA Weekly, and a brand new Fantasy mode. FIFA 22 launches in September for Xbox One and PlayStation 4.
