The year is 2804 AD. It was a dark time. Technology and magic are in the twilight of a fading age. I am, surprisingly, the last Elder, as were my predecessors. My only duty is to train the new generation and the ones that already are, in the art of making potions. Every potion brewed yields +1~3 Potency points. The Potency will slowly decay the longer the potion is kept. Brewing a potion with Potency level 4 yields a Potion of Potency level 1. On top of that, I give you hints on where and what to harvest for the ingredients needed to brew potions. I spent the last few centuries watching the potter's craft die with the gradual rise of technology and magic. My last living memory was the most recent death of my apprentice from an overdose of Potency. He had become stronger and stronger. I attempted to get him help, but all the medicine did was suppress his symptoms. A few years later, he mysteriously disappeared. This is your chance to return to a simpler time and earn the title of master

Story

Shadows have already appear and all previous medium failed to get rid of it. Only dog, the younger brother of the orb bad boy, fell for immortality's hook, with an inescapable vengeance on their mind. Unlike his brother, he refused to write on his way, he opted for the path of the evil and began to terrorize the innocent. Thus it was necessary for the investigator-assassin to kill him and the shadows at the right location. Before throwing the corpse in a coffin, the agent must find the demon's lair in your haunted house, where one of the evil four effigies has hidden himself: Demon's head, Demon's torso, Demon's armpit, Demon's shank.

Unfortunately for the investigator, a rash of suicides has never arrested the national evil. And so he must play his own way, all on his own. He can only count on his own personal qualities, such as agility, magic, climbing, throwing weapons and the ability to work. His only allies are the ghosts of all species from the post-mortem world - bear, wolf, owl, cat, bats, owls and other forms of prey. The investigator will have to perform the most risky of actions and become immortal, only thus do you kill the demon and rest assured that the shadows will leave you.

A few days later, a second victim is found, and then another. And the girls receive a mysterious text on their smart phones and receive an invitation to a “contest.” Follow the girls as they fight a demon that has gotten loose in this cursed video game, and hope that they’re not the next victim. My Friend Is A Raven is a short, but trippy game that throws you right into the action.
