Free and commercial versions come with the free Photoshop Elements cloud storage (one terabyte [1TB] of storage per user for the commercial version). This gives you one terabyte of cloud storage for sharing photos. You can now purchase additional cloud storage space as an in-app purchase on the free version of Photoshop Elements. Adobe's Personal Use License allows you to use Photoshop Elements on one computer. You can make up to five copies for non-commercial use. For example, you'll need to pay for cloud storage if you want to save your image there. If you don't want to use cloud storage to save your image, you can use the free version of Photoshop Elements to edit your images. There are also features in Photoshop Elements that you won't find in the more-advanced Photoshop. You'll find a quick-access toolbar in Elements to speed up your workflow, for example. GENOME ANNOUNCEMENT =====

Enterovirus B (EV-B) species belong to the human Picornaviridae family and are classified into several different types ([@B1]). Enterovirus B80 (EV-B80) was first reported in 1999 and was detected in patients with acute type B-poliovirus (B-poliovirus) infection ([@B2]). EV-B80 causes severe diseases, such as myocarditis, encephalitis, pneumonia, and central nervous system (CNS) diseases ([@B3]). EV-B80 is one of the major causes of acute flaccid paralysis in Japan ([@B4]). EV-B80 was first isolated in our laboratory from a patient with acute flaccid paralysis in Tokyo in 2005 ([@B5]). EV-B80 had been detected in CSF samples from two patients with acute flaccid paralysis with a similar clinical manifestation. One of these patients was a male patient with diphtheria from Osaka, Japan, and the other was a female patient with multiple sclerosis (MS) from Osaka, Japan ([@B5], [@B6]). Novel EV-B80 strain D4 was isolated from the CSF sample of a patient with acute flaccid paralysis in Japan in 2006. This strain was isolated in Madin-Darby canine kidney cells (MDCK cells) and was named EV-B80/D4. The EV-B80 strain D4 was detected in CSF samples from four patients with acute flaccid paralysis in Japan, and only these four strains were isolated from patients with the same clinical manifestations. The patient was a male patient of 22 years of age living in Osaka, Japan. EV-B80 strain D4 was also detected in the CSF sample of an adult healthy patient in Japan, who had not been exposed to polio vaccination, indicating that the patient was not immunocompromised and that EV-B80 was not actively spreading in Japan. The complete genome sequence of EV-B80 strain D4 was determined using a sequencing method as described previously ([@B7], [@B8]). Briefly, EV-B80 strain D4 genome was sequenced using a shotgun sequencing strategy in an Illumina HiSeq 2000 sequencer by using Illumina paired-end reads. The obtained reads were assembled using Velvet version 0.7.61 and Velvet

A study of the effects of colchicine on the immunology of mice bearing Lewis lung tumour. Mice bearing a transplantable Lewis lung tumour were treated with colchicine. Colchicine at doses of 5.0 and 10.0 micrograms/mouse/day administered i.p. for 4 and 7 days or at doses of 25.0 and 50.0 micrograms/mouse/day for 10 days, impaired tumour growth while treatment for only 10 days produced a significant delay in tumour growth. Colchicine at the dose of 5.0 micrograms/mouse/day for 4 and 7 days or at doses of 10.0 and 25.0 micrograms/mouse/day for 10 days caused significant enhancement of the in vitro immune response as judged by macrophage migration inhibition tests and allogeneic antibody forming cell (AFC) responses. This observation was also confirmed by the decline in the in vivo tumour growth which was revealed with sequential measurements of the tumour growth in treated animals. The enhanced in vitro immune response by colchicine was associated with an increase in serum levels of IgM and IgG as measured by ELISA techniques. Furthermore, colchicine enhanced the in vitro chemotaxis of peritoneal macrophages and caused significant enhancement of the mean cell number of peritoneal exudate cells and increased the NK cell activity as estimated by the dye exclusion technique. The possible mode of interaction between colchicine and the immune system as regards enhancing the response to tumour challenge is discussed.
