An Iowa man suffered third-degree burns and then needed surgery after accidentally pouring hot coffee on his groin — and now he's suing the coffee shop for not protecting him. George Baisden of Storm Lake received third-degree burns to his scrotum, penis and surrounding areas when he set his coffee cup on top of his crotch while he was sitting at a Dunkin' Donuts. Baisden says he had already purchased his drink before he realized the hot liquid was burning his groin. The Storm Lake Regional Medical Center surgeon who treated him told Baisden he will never enjoy sex again, he told the Smoking Gun. "My first reaction was, 'Oh my God, I can't have sex with a scar on my penis,'" Baisden said. The District Court filings show the suit accuses the coffee shop of negligence. The suit claims the store failed to protect an "untrained patron" from being hurt by a coffee spill. The Storm Lake Herald says a Dunkin' Donuts spokesman said the coffee shop chain "remains committed to providing its patrons with a safe environment." "As an extension of our longstanding commitment to safety, we are pleased to see these lawsuits being withdrawn," the spokesman said.

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a locking method for a flexible shaft, and more particularly to a safe method for locking a flexible shaft such as a hose to prevent the flexible shaft from being accidentally pulled out. 2. Description of the Related Art For a mechanism including a flexible shaft such as a flexible hose, in order to prevent the shaft from being pulled out, a locking method is generally provided for locking the shaft to a base. However, some locking methods may suffer from unexpected effects such as damage of the shaft or failure of the locking action, rendering the methods invalid. Therefore, what is required is a locking method for a flexible shaft that can ensure a sure locking action and a good effect against accidental withdrawal.

"What happened to my eyes?" In 2018, Davis earned $5.35 million, according to an official release from ESPN. That is down roughly $75,000 from his total earnings in 2017. As for Davis' net worth, he told the Globe in 2017 that he is worth $35 million. Davis, who is not blind, tweeted back, saying, "I like the orange. Maybe I've had mj. I need good doctors." The 2017-2018 season included three straight seasons of Davis not being named the top studio host as he was in the program's three years prior, according to the official release. In fact, his highest-rated broadcast came in the 2017-2018 season as the NBA Finals between the Golden State Warriors and Cleveland

Cavaliers. Davis worked in sports for nearly two decades, but he left ESPN last September after 12 years with the network. He started with ESPN in 2002 as a contributor before rising to the co-host 6d1f23a050
