We push the envelope by challenging conventional paradigms, advancing and combining technologies in ways that have never before been envisioned, and leading industry trends. By using Performance Shifting Control (PSC) in RevoGen's REVO technology, Ford has created an entirely new concept in shifting that will dramatically improve vehicle driving characteristics and increase fuel efficiency by 100,000 miles. RevoGen is the first product that offers: • Control over Drivetrain Dynamics via Rotational Shift (RS) during normal driving conditions, • Accelerated Shift by means of shifting from Drive to Neutral at a selected speed, • Driving characteristics of a manual transmission in Reverse and Parking Locking, and • Customized Level of Shift by combining Shift-Range, Shift-Speed and Shift-Position. RevoGen's own REVO Technology The REVO technology is a CVT that provides engine braking effect, and not only does this technology get rid of power-sapping friction, it also makes it possible for the driver to increase the speed without power. The traditional method of shifting utilizes the Transmission Control Unit (TCU) to control the shift, and as soon as the TCU detects a shift during Drive Mode, it shuts off the Engine and makes a shift to Reverse with a second shift to Drive Mode that begins immediately. The idea behind RevoGen's REVO technology is that at a certain RPM, the system has enough power to start the engine braking without having to change the Shift Mode to Drive, so it can perform the shift without having to adjust the engine speed to stop Engine Speed from increasing. The REVO System makes a shift from Drive to Reverse, via Neutral, at a selected RPM, and as soon as the RPM is achieved, the REVO system starts the Engine Braking. Rot c6a93da74d
