I absolutely loved the first few scenes of this movie. It was a gem. After some time, it just went downhill. It was too long, and I could not stand all the gags. This movie is definitely not one of the highest on the list. There were some good characters, but other than them, I didn't care about any of the main characters. The film is complete crap. But I applaud the director for trying. This is NOT my favorite movie of the year. Genius Chiyaan Giri was brilliant in the first part of the film, with the most prominent singing act, some great dance numbers, and some great comedy scenes. However, things went down hill with the first half of the second half. The plot was inconsistent, the chemistry between the characters didn't work, and a lot of scenes were done in a jumbled way that was plain unconvincing. I do believe that the creators of this film are trying to win back some of the bad name they have been saddled with by the people that have seen their other movies. I feel, however, that the attempt to redeem it through "Chiyaan Giri" wasn't enough. In fact, the story went from bad to worse, and I really felt like walking out of the theater halfway through the film. There are several movies out there that are making a name for themselves by their first few seconds. Not everything that is outstanding in the first few minutes carries on into the rest of the movie, and here, there is a very good reason for that. First of all, the cinema is messed up in the entire first act. We are shown a huge VFX sequence with very little explanation as to what it is supposed to be. And, while everything seems fine for the rest of the movie, the mess continues after that. The movie builds up a LOT of suspense as we see another girl get raped by a thug. And, we even know about this from the beginning, but somehow, it is really f*g well done. Then there is another scene with a similar theme that basically breaks the movie's rhythm. You just do not understand what is going on, and I was expecting more. Then, the movie goes for a rest from the suspense for about an hour and a half, which, in itself, isn't a problem. But, as soon as it is back, it fails to deliver. My biggest grievance with the movie is how unconvincing the fights between the thieves and thugs are. One minute, you see their guns being thrust to their heads, and you get all the excitement.
